PRESENTATION Salamanca, golden city of Spain

Salamanca, known as the Golden City, houses the fifth oldest university in the world and numerous historic buildings, all built from the same golden coloured stone, from which it gets its name.

Many philosophers, writers and artists have passed through the University of Salamanca but the townspeople are modest, welcoming and always ready for a party.

Salamanca, a welcoming town, rich in monuments and heritage, gained the title of Patrimoine de l'Humanite in 1988, and European Capital of Culture in 2002.

Come and learn Spanish in Salamanca and get to know this town of learning and beautiful architecture.

Discovering the town

Alfredo Herrera

Plaza Mayor de Salamanca

La Plaza Mayor, the most beautiful and impressive in Spain is the jewel of the town and of Castile, the birthplace of the Spanish language.

Cathédral

Salamanca Cathedral is actually two buildings combined: one is the ancient cathedral dating from XII-XIII century and the other a more modern building dating from XVI century.

Jeronimus. This is an exhibition giving a novel view of the Cathedral and town of Salamanca.

Jeronimus

Salamanca, town of thought and knowledge

World wide standard in the history of knowledge and teaching.

Founded in 1218, the university has acquired a cultural reputation in the field of education which has spread beyond the borders of Spain.

L'Université de Salamanque

Look for the frog!

Hidden among the many decorations on the façade of the University you will find a frog. The legend says that anyone who finds it, without asking anyone, will have a happy and successful married life.
