

History of Eurojumelages

Drawing inspiration from the twinning between cities of Darmstadt (Germany) and Troyes (France), in 1959 an idea was conceived to also draw together the respective colleagues of the former postal and telecommunications services of these two cities. Several meetings were held by employees in the two organizations and in 1962 the Jumelages Européens PTT was founded. In 1984, in addition to the national associations, an international umbrella organization was founded, the UIJPTT that was subsequently renamed Eurojumelages.

This community of twins continued to expand throughout Europe and today embodies thousands of persons from more than 100 sections in 13 European countries.

The individual sections are amicably linked through numerous national and international partnerships.
